INTRODUCTION.

THE text of the lately-discovered Codex of Old Syriac Gospels is now before the public, and as a translation into English has not been appended to it, the time seems to have come when students of the Bible, who are not Syriac scholars, should be made acquainted with the contents and characteristics of this ancient document. We think that the cause of truth will be best served by placing a translation of the whole text before our readers, and not merely isolated passages, which are apt to be misconstrued when detached from their surroundings. And in order that they may be the better able to form an opinion as to the value of the text, we shall introduce it with—firstly, a short narrative of how the manuscript was discovered and transcribed; secondly, the relation which it is supposed to hold to other Syriac versions; thirdly, a description of the manuscript itself; and fourthly, what appears to us, at first sight, to be a few of its leading features.

I. HOW THE MANUSCRIPT WAS DISCOVERED AND TRANSCRIBED.

The convent of St. Katharine on Mount Sinai stands on the barren granite rocks of a narrow desert valley 4500 feet above the level of the Red Sea, and some 2800 feet below the summit of Jebel Mousa, on whose precipitous side it rests. A community of monks dwelt there from a very early period, keeping alive the traditions which cluster around the spot; traditions of Moses watering sheep at the well of Jethro ; of the rock which gushed with water at the touch of his rod ; of the burning bush which flamed on a spot now covered by the apse of the convent church ; and of the cave, a thousand feet higher, where Elijah was fed by ravens, and where he heard the still small voice. Several other monasteries flourished in the rocky valleys of that wonderful block of pink granite mountains, of which the lower part is called Horeb, and the upper part Sinai ; and numberless are the caves of hermits, chiefly Egyptian, who in those early days burrowed like rabbits amongst the sandstone or limestone cliffs of the desert peninsula. The convent of St. Katharine was in the sixth century turned into a fortress by Justinian, who surrounded it with a massive wall ; and we may well imagine that as the smaller convents fell into decay, or were threatened by turbulent or fanatic Bedawin, not only their monks but their manuscripts were transferred to it as to a place of safety.

This may account for the wealth of literary treasures which have been accumulated within these ancient walls, where indeed there is little accommodation for their due keeping. The Greek MSS. catalogued by Gardhausen are about 1223 in number ; the Arabic MSS., according to the list published by my sister, Mrs. Gibson, number about 629 ; the Syriac MSS. 267 ; and the Iberian MSS. perhaps 100. Some of these are neatly arranged on book-shelves, but the greater part are stored in chests, and are therefore inaccessible to any traveller who cannot make his wants known to the monks, and inspire them with confidence in his own integrity.

Books which have lost their bindings are kept in large baskets, and from one of these probably Tischendorf extracted in 1844 the famous Codex Sinaiticus, which, containing as it does a Greek text of nearly the whole Bible, has been of such inestimable value in textual revision. It has been a cause of irritation to the monks that they did not succeed in keeping this treasure in their possession. Partly to this, and partly to the fact that Western scholars are usually ignorant of modern Greek, we may attribute the fact that a chest containing ancient Syriac MSS. has lain there undisturbed for centuries. Professor Palmer saw its contents in 1868, and thus refers to them :

“Amongst a pile of patristic and other works of no great age or interest, are some curious old Syriac books, and one or two palimpsests. My hurried visit prevented me from examining these with any great care ; but they would no doubt well repay investigation.”—The Desert of the Exodus, Vol. I. p. 70.

The first real examination of these books was reserved for Mr. Rendel Harris, who in 1889, after a stay of fifteen days at the convent, contrived to disarm all prejudices, and to obtain access to these hidden treasures. How he then found the Syriac text of the Apology of Aristides has been told elsewhere, and I refer to it only because it awakened in both Mr. Harris' mind and in my own the conviction that there was something more in the convent, a conviction which induced me and my twin sister, Mrs. James Y. Gibson, to fulfil a long-cherished wish by visiting Sinai in February 1892.

Amongst the ancient volumes which were produced for our inspection by the late Hegoumenos and Librarian, Father Galakteon, was a thick volume, whose leaves had evidently been unturned for centuries, as they could be separated only by manipulation with the fingers ; and in the case of ff. 65, 66, by the steam of a kettle. A single glance told me that the book was a palimpsest, and I soon ascertained that the upper writing was a very entertaining account of the lives of women saints, and that its date was, as I then read it, a thousand and nine years after Alexander, that is A.D. 697. After the word "nine" there is a small hole in the vellum, which, as Mr. Rendel Harris believes, occupies the place of the syllable corresponding to the "ty" of "ninety," and the date is thus probably A.D. 778.

I then examined the more ancient writing which lay beneath this. It is in two columns, one of which is always projected on to the margin, and it is written in the same Estrangelo character, but in a much smaller hand than the later writing which covers it. It was also slightly reddish in colour. As I glanced down the margin for over 280 pages, every word that I could decipher was from the Gospels; and so were the lines which at the top or bottom of several pages were free of the later writing. And few indeed were the pages which had not a distinct title, such as "Evangelium," "da Mathai," "da Marcus," or "da Luca." My sister could not at that time read a single letter of Syriac, although she has since acquired enough to give me very material help in the preparation of this volume. I however succeeded in impressing these facts on her mind, and obtained her assistance in photographing the whole of the volume, and I also made an index to it by copying the top lines of each page in the later writing.

Our photographs, though they were the work of novices in the art, were fairly successful; and after we had ourselves developed them, they were shewn to more than one Semitic scholar. Most of our learned friends, however, had not sufficiently keen eyes, nor indeed sufficient time to read what we assured them was a copy of the Gospels written not later than the fifth century. At last they were shewn to Mr. F. C. Burkitt, and he took them to the late Professor Bensly, who was then engaged on a critical edition of the Curetonian Gospels, and to whom the Old Syriac text was therefore most familiar. The decipherment by him and by Mr. Burkitt of a page was sufficient to enable him to pronounce that we had discovered a text of the same type as the Curetonian. But as the whole of it could not be transcribed from my photographs, we at once organized a second expedition, which took place in the early part of 1893.

On this second expedition, Professor Bensly, Lecturer in Aramaic to the University of Cambridge, Mr. J. Rendel Harris, University Lecturer in Palæography, and Mr. F. C. Burkitt went for the purpose of transcribing the text of the Gospels directly from the manuscript, Mr. Burkitt having already copied some thirty pages from my photographs. Two of these gentlemen were accompanied by their wives, whilst my sister and I went in order to ensure their getting access to the volume, as well as to continue our researches.

The monks received us with great cordiality, especially Father Galakteon, who at once entrusted the palimpsest to my keeping. I had already divided my photographs amongst the three transcribers—the first 104 pages to Mr. Rendel Harris, pp. 105 to 200 to Mr. Burkitt, and pp. 201 to 284 to Professor Bensly. This division determined the arrangement of their work, which they accomplished in forty days. None of them could have published his results separately, the four Gospels having been all interleaved with each other when the vellum was used for the Martyrology. Mr. Burkitt compared what he had already copied with the original, whilst I brought up a great deal of the faded writing by the application of a chemical re-agent—hydro-sulphide of ammonia—recommended to me by Mr. Scott, of the British Museum.

Our return home was saddened by the unexpected death of Professor Bensly. He had seemed to thrive on the hardships of the desert journey, but his health had long been precarious; and the careful nursing of his devoted wife could not ward off the attack of the insidious disease which carried him off only three days after his return to Cambridge.

As some of the pages which had fallen to his lot and to that of Mr. Burkitt were still undeciphered, I placed fresh photographs, representing these, at Mr. Burkitt's disposal after our return home, with the result that a good many lacunae in the text were filled up by him.

II. RELATION OF OUR CODEX TO OTHER SYRIAC VERSIONS.

Syriac, or more properly Christian Aramaic, was the first language into which the New Testament was translated; and as the Greek text itself was written by men who habitually thought in Syriac, the early versions in this tongue have a closer affinity with the original text than those of any other can possibly have, not excepting the old Latin. Aramaic was once popularly supposed to be a corrupt form of Hebrew; but that is a mistake. It is a language quite as regularly formed, and with a grammar quite as distinct, as either Hebrew or Arabic. Almost our first record of its use is from the lips of Laban. In Gen. xxxi. 47 we read that when Laban and Jacob set up a heap of stones as a witness of the covenant between them, Jacob called it, in good Hebrew, Galeed; and Laban, in equally good Aramaic, Jegar-sahadutha. We therefore conclude that Aramaic was the vernacular of Mesopotamia, the cradle of Abraham's family.

That it was also the vernacular of Palestine in our Lord's time, the language spoken by Him and in which He addressed the multitude, there can be no doubt. Not only the proper names of persons and the names of places which occur in the Four Gospels tell us this, but various Aramaic phrases embodied in the Greek text, such as "Epphatha," "Talitha cumi," and the last despairing cry of our Lord on the cross, "Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani," are not translated in this Old Syriac version, for the good reason that they are part of the text itself.

There are also other indications. Semitic peoples delight in puns, and in assonances or jingles of words. We need not go far to prove this. The Qurân derives much of its supposed sanctity from this cause alone. Babylonian royal decrees and Arabic law documents are all enlivened by it. And in the Syriac version of our Lord's discourses it seems as if one word had sometimes suggested another. For instance, John viii. 34: "He who committeth sin is the slave of sin." Here the word for "commit" and the word for "slave" are both regular forms of the trilateral verb 'bad. There is a similar play on the same word in Luke vii. 8, "I say to my slave, do this, and he doeth it."

Another, which has been detected by my sister, Matt. x. 30: "But the very hairs of your head are all numbered." The word for "hairs" is mene, and the word for "number" is mna, both probably from the same root.

Also Matt. xxvii. 6, dmaya ennōn da dmā—"the price of blood."

In Matthew x. 13 we have, "And when ye come into an house give peace to it [that is, salute it], and if the house be worthy, your peace shall rest upon it, and if not, your peace shall return unto you." In the Greek text ἀσπάζασθε ("salute") has no verbal relation to εἰρήνη ("peace"). We therefore conclude that our Lord gave this direction in a Semitic tongue, and used either the Hebrew shalūm or the Syriac shalma.

The alliteration memath tamōth of Mark vii. 10 can be reproduced in an English idiom, "die the death," though it is absent from the Greek.

In John xii. 32, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men unto me," the word "lifted up" has the secondary sense of "be crucified."

In John xx. 10 there is in the Greek text an expression, ἀπῆλθον . . . πρὸς ἑαυτοῦς, which is not classical, and may perhaps be a translation of the Syriac ezal lahūn.

And in John xx. 19 the curious grammar of τῆ μιᾷ τῶν σαββάτων is at once explained by the Syriac had beshaba. These last two examples may have sprung from the Evangelist's thoughts being habitually in Syriac.

St. Paul must have been thinking in Aramaic when he wrote to the Romans (xiii. 8): wa lenash medem la tehubun, ella had lehad lemahābbu—"Owe no man anything, but to love one another." Here the word hāb ("owe") is not the same as habb ("love"), but the sound is very similar: as in the case of dmaya and dmā. Our Lord himself may also have made a play on the same words in the story of the two debtors, as recorded in Luke vii. 41, 42. And in the Palestinian Syriac, the words addressed by the risen Saviour to Mary Magdalene are so rhythmical, that we feel as if they must be the very accents which fell from His lips: Attatha, ma at bakia, leman at ba'ia—"Woman, why weepest thou, whom seekest thou?"

The Aramaic Christians adopted the name of Syrians, bestowed on them by the Greeks, because they, the Aramaia, did not wish to be confounded with Armaia (the heathen), and the country of Aram was henceforth known as Syria.

The first specimen of literature they possessed was probably a translation of the Old Testament, which was read in their synagogues. The next was a version of the New Testament (if we may not count the original of Matthew's Gospel), and after that, translations of the early Fathers, and of the works of Greek philosophers. Some of these have come down to us in a Syriac dress only. Syriac literature can shew no work of original genius, and it is prized chiefly for the light which it throws upon the history of the New Testament.

One of its most valuable products was the Diatessarōn, or Harmony of the Four Gospels, composed by a Syrian named Tatian, in the second century. Whether he made use of a Syriac or of a Greek text is not yet ascertained. But this Harmony was so highly valued, that for three centuries it supplanted every other book in the worship of the Syrian churches. At some period between A.D. 411 and A.D. 435 Bishop Rabbula, of Edessa, promulgated an edict that it must be replaced by the Separate Gospels. From that time copies of Tatian's work began to disappear, and its text is known to us only from quotations in an Armenian version of Mar Ephraim's Commentary, and in an Arabic translation, of which two copies exist in the Vatican Library. These have been edited by Ciasca.

The Pěshittā, or "simple" version, which seems to have replaced the Diatessarōn, is one which underwent successive revisions in order to bring it into harmony with the Greek codices; and it is, in fact, the Syrian Vulgate.

Quotations in some of the Fathers had suggested to Griesbach, Hug, and others, the existence of a version older than the Pěshittā before the happy discovery by Canon Cureton in 1842 of the British Museum MS., which is now numbered Add. 14,451. This was one of a number of MSS. which had been brought to the Museum from the convent of St. Mary Deipara, in the Nitrian Desert, Egypt, by Archdeacon Tattam. It is written in a clear, distinct hand, only one leaf being palimpsest; and it did not therefore present the same difficulties to a transcriber which our Sinai codex did. But it has been seriously mutilated, and the sum of its contents is as follows:

Matthew i. 1—viii. 22; x. 32—xxiii. 25;

Mark xvi. 17—20;

John i. 1—42; iii. 5—viii. 19; xiv. 10—12; 15—19; 21—23; 26—29;

Luke ii. 48—iii. 16; vii. 33—xvi. 12; xvii. 1—xxiv. 44.
and from some of these verses a few words are missing.

Other Syriac versions are:

The Philoxenian, made by Philoxenus, bishop of Mabbōgh, about A.D. 508. (A revision of this, made by Thomas of Harkel a century later, is called the Harklensian.)

The Palestinian Syriac version, whose origin is attributed by Nöldeke to the fourth or fifth century, and which is now extant only in the form of a Lectionary. Till our visit to Sinai in 1892, only one copy of this was known to exist, that in the Vatican Library, which has been edited by Count Erizzo-Miniscalchi and by Paul de Lagarde. Its date is about A.D. 1029. The copy discovered by me at Sinai in 1892 is dated A.D. 1104, and that which Mr. Rendel Harris found in 1893 A.D. 1118. The translation is from a Greek manuscript quite independent of any that are now extant; yet it agrees in the main with the Codex Sinaiticus and the Codex Vaticanus. A fresh edition is in course of preparation.

III. DESCRIPTION OF THE MANUSCRIPT.

The manuscript is numbered 30 in the convent library, and is a complete book so far as the later writing is concerned. Its material is a strong vellum, the outer pages only being disposed to crumble. Here we find in sober fact what happened only metaphorically in the middle ages—the Word of God completely obscured by the legends of the saints. John the Recluse, of Beth-Mari, Kaddish, being in want of vellum, pulled to pieces a copy of the Old Syriac Gospels, and wrote above them his Select Narratives of Holy Women, viz.: Thecla, Eugenia, Pelagia, Mary or Marinus, Euphrosyne, Onesima, Drusis, Barbara, Mary, Irene, Euphemia, Sophia, Theodosia, Theodota, a short Creed, Susanna, Cyprian and Justa, and some verses of a metrical Homily of Mar Ephraim, about Paradise.

The text of the Gospels underlies about 284 pages on 142 leaves of this Martyrology. But it did not suffice for the wants of John the Recluse. To obtain a further supply of vellum for his stories he made use of four leaves from a fourth-century Greek MS. of the Gospels ; many leaves from a volume of Syriac Apocrypha containing the Acts of Thomas and the Repose of Mary, and more leaves from another Greek MS. which has not yet been identified.

The stories in the Martyrology are of a very racy character, and throw a curious light on the monastic life at its prime. They have apparently been well read, perhaps by generations of Sinai monks, if we may judge from the thumb-stained margins. Iberian monks have certainly at one period handled the volume, for they have re-numbered its quires in their own tongue. To complete our description of this interesting volume we must state that Mr. Rendel Harris detected the existence of a still more ancient writing beneath that of the Gospels, in this the very oldest specimen of a palimpsest which has as yet come to light.

IV. A FEW OF ITS LEADING CHARACTERISTICS.

Of the titles to the four Gospels two only have been deciphered,—those to Luke and John, with the colophons to Mark, Luke, and John. The spaces between the end of one Gospel and beginning of another were pronounced to be blank, but at Mr. Harris' suggestion I applied my re-agent to them, and they came up in a rich reddish-brown colour. One result of this is that we have their title at the very end. It reads thus :

“Here endeth the Gospel of the Mēpharrēshē four books :
Glory to God and to his Christ, and to his Holy Spirit.
Let every one who reads, and hears, and keeps, and does, pray for the sinner who wrote it. May God in his tender mercy forgive him his sins in both worlds. Amen and Amen."

The epithet "mēpharrēshē" is applied to the Gospels both in Cureton's MS. and in the Sinai one. In our text it bears unmistakeably the two dots which denote the plural. It is therefore a term to be applied to all the four Gospels, just as εὐαγγέλιον in the colophon of our text means "Gospel" generally in the old patristic sense. The question now is, What meaning are we to attach to it?

Cureton applied to Bernstein, who suggested "Evangelium per anni circulum dispositum," a copy of the Gospels divided into lections, or portions appointed to be read throughout the year, and referred to Assemani's Bibliotheca Orient. Clemen. Vat., vol. II. p. 230. Cureton made the obvious objection that there are no indications whatever of such lections in the MS. written at the same period as its title. His judgment is confirmed by the fact that there are also none in our MS.

Another explanation is that mēpharrēshē means "separate," as distinct from "mixed" mēhallētē. In favour of this it has been urged that the canons of Bishop Rabbula of Edessa (A.D. 412—435) ordain that in all churches a gospel of the separated Evangelion da Mēpharrēshē should be kept and read, obviously that it might supplement the Diatessarōn of Tatian, which seems to have been in general use before that period. This is a very strong point.

The difficulty is (1) that the term mēpharrēshē runs through the whole of Syriac literature, and is applied to the Pēshittā, probably by inheritance, as well as to the Curetonian; (2) that it is applied to the Psalms as well as to the Gospels.

In Dr. Wright's catalogue of the Syriac MSS. in the British Museum, we find that No. CLXVIII. contains the Psalms according to the Pěshittā version, with the title, katba : da-tashbüchtæ : da-david : da-měpharrěshē.

In a note to this, Dr. Wright says : "The word da-měpharrěshē seems here really to mean 'of the interpreters, or of the translators.' The strange thing is that such titles should be prefixed to the ordinary Pěshittā version, and that, too, in a MS. dated A.D. 600."

The meaning "of the interpreters or translators" is corroborated by the title to No. CLXIX. (A.D. 14, 436), to which Dr. Wright draws attention. It runs :

"By the power of the Lord Jesus we begin to write (the Psalms) of David, of the měpharrěshē, which we bring out of the Palestinian tongue to the Hebrew, and from the Hebrew to the Greek, and from the Greek to the Syriac."

It is generally allowed that the word פָּרַשׁ sometimes means "to transcribe" in Hebrew. Here are two cases in which it apparently means the same in Syriac ; and in a Targum on Isaiah viii. 1, the epithet מִפְּרָשׁ is applied to writing in the sense of "clear," "distinct." We must therefore leave the question to further discussion on the part of critics. There is, however, not much hope of their judgment being final until we have the Syriac text of the Diatessarōn in our hands. Then the great problem may be solved. Was the Diatessarōn compiled in the second century from the version contained in the Curetonian and in the Sinai codices ? or did that version come into existence only in the fourth century, when the use of the Diatessarōn was discontinued ?

Let us now see what our Codex says about the Gospel of Matthew. In chap. i. v. 8 the name of Joram is followed immediately by that of Uzziah; and the three kings, Ahazia, Joash, and Amuzia, who came betwixt them in Cureton's MS., are absent.

In v. 16 we come to the most startling variation in our Codex. Although none of the surviving Syriac students, except the transcriber, who were present at Sinai in 1893, knew of this strange reading until months after our return home, and although Professor Bensly has not appended his initials to the foot of the page, we shall not venture to doubt the accuracy of the transcription, which, however, rests upon the evidence of one pair of eyes only. We ask our readers to consider carefully the whole passage, from v. 16 to the end of the chapter.

It is hardly possible to find a consistent narrative in this self-contradictory recital. Had v. 16 stood alone we might have suspected a clerical error, but the occurrence of the word lek ("to thee") in v. 21, and leh ("to him") in v. 25, with the omission of the words, καὶ οὐκ ἐγίνωσκειν αὐτήν, ἕως οὖν, makes it almost certain that the statement in v. 16 is an intentional one. Our Codex stands alone in its peculiar readings of these three verses, and doubtless some critics will be inclined to set its authority against that of all the oldest Greek MSS. of all the versions, and of its own sister manuscript, the Curetonian. If so, we hope they will be consistent, and make its text the touch-stone of accuracy everywhere else, not forgetting its reading of v. 18, "when they had not come near one to another, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost."

In the meantime, there are some considerations bearing on this subject which we shall do well to keep in mind.

We have in Matthew's narrative, and in Luke's, two genealogies, both of Joseph only. Possibly the one was on the father's side, the other on the mother's side, and both are probably copied from an official register, the last clause of which was perhaps added at the time of the Presentation in the Temple, and was modified by the Evangelist when he became fully acquainted with the story of Mary. It is possible that we have here a partly modified form; but even here Mary is called the Virgin—a title which no one unacquainted with the miraculous birth of her first-born would naturally have given her.

*I think Luke 2 23 is a copyist's error
The text should be as in the original MS.*

The fact that Joseph was troubled about Mary's condition is simply inexplicable if he were the father of Jesus. And it is difficult to reconcile the idea of his being a just man with that of his wishing to put her away. These circumstances the scribe of our Codex, if he were a heretic, has not been bold enough to suppress.

We have no genealogy of Mary. This is only natural. Our Lord's social position and civil rights were determined by the relation in which He stood to one who was both His reputed father and his foster-father. His disciples were eager that He should claim the throne of David and drive out the Romans, and they therefore laid great stress upon Joseph's ancestry. Even after our Lord's Ascension, as they were disappointed in their expectation that His second coming would take place in their own life-time, they took care that there should be a permanent record of this. We can easily imagine that Mary would make known her wonderful secret to a few only, and that it was not at once published abroad to a nation who would have received it with scornful incredulity. But from the few it was doubtless communicated to many of the disciples, and we can hardly believe that they did not investigate the truth of a statement which most of them sealed with suffering and with death. The seclusion in which Eastern women are kept, not indeed in their houses, but from social intercourse with all members of the other sex who are not of kin to them, and their own gregarious habits, make it highly improbable that Mary could be guilty of a lapse from virtue without the knowledge of some female companion. St. Luke states, chap. i. v. 3, that he had investigated all these things from the beginning, and it is much to be regretted that Luke i. v. 35 occurs on a lost page of our manuscript.

Meanwhile, it is important to remember that we have not ascertained all the facts which may throw light upon the history of this Sinai Codex. In particular, we have not the initial title,—a title whose actual existence has been detected from my photographs by Mr. Rendel Harris. It is on the recto of the page which contains Matthew i. 1—17, and it may yet tell us both the name of the scribe, and the place where the MS. was written.

The various readings in this Codex afford much food for discussion. Those of our readers who are deeply interested in the subject will find many of these for themselves, but we shall point out some which appear to throw fresh light upon the sacred narrative, and some which in our humble opinion indicate an older form of the Old Syriac version than Cureton's manuscript.

In Matthew xix. 29, and in Mark x. 29, our Codex agrees with the judgment of the Revisers by omitting the word "wife" from those whom it is meritorious to leave for our Lord's sake. In Matthew xix. 29 the word "father" is also omitted.

In Matthew xx. 12 we have "the burden of the day in the heat," which seems a natural expression.

Matthew xxiii. 13 gives us a graphic picture of priestly pretensions. "Ye hold the key of the kingdom of heaven before men : for ye neither enter in yourselves, nor those that are coming do ye suffer them to enter."

Matthew xviii. 20 gives us a reading similar to that of Codex Bezae, "For there are not two or three gathered together in my name and I not amongst them." We could believe that the Syriac translator had confounded the Greek words οὐ and οὐδ, were it not that he has given us a perfectly idiomatic expression.

In Matthew xxvi. 25, and in Mark xiv. 19, the question of the disciples, "Is it I, Lord?" is put in a somewhat stronger and more interesting form. It begins with a word which in Syriac corresponds partly to the Latin ne . . . forte, and to the Greek μήπως. This suggests that the question was a deprecatory one, and as it cannot be rendered in English, we have had recourse to the idiom which would probably rise to the lips of one of our own countrymen in a similar case, "Not I, surely, Lord?"

In Matthew xxvii. 56 the companion of Mary Magdalene is called Mary the daughter of James and mother of Joseph. This is repeated in Mark xv. 40. Mary is called the daughter of James also in the two Palestinian Syriac Lectionaries which were found by Mr. Rendel Harris and myself in the Sinai Convent. It is difficult to trace her family connections, but amongst other suggestions one of Mrs. Gibson's may be noted, that perhaps we may link her with the genealogy in Matthew, and that possibly she was the mother-in-law of the Virgin Mary.

If so, she very naturally appears both near the cross and at the sepulchre (see Matthew i. 15, 16).

In Mark x. 50 we are told that blind Timai, son of Timai, put on his garment before he rose and came to Jesus. This, to anyone who has watched Eastern habits, seems a more natural action than if he had cast it away.

The most remarkable feature in our text of Mark is the omission of twelve verses, chap. xvi. 9—20. This occurs in other ancient codices, notably in both the Sinaiticus and the Vaticanus. But in these it is open to question if their absence is not due to cancelling by a later hand. In ours there can be no doubt that they never existed. This is made abundantly clear by the frontispiece to this volume, which represents the page on which St. Mark ends and St. Luke begins. The space betwixt the two is on the left hand column, that is the second column, on the page, for our readers must remember that Syriac is read from right to left; the intervening space is filled up by the words written with red ink, "Here endeth the Gospel of Mark." Then comes a line of ornamental dots, and then, "The Gospel of Luke," also in red.

The subject is too perplexing to enter on here, but it is worthy of remark, that in the Greek codices where these twelve verses do occur, the word τέλος ("end") is always found after verse 8 and also after verse 20. What is very strange is that these verses must exist in Cureton's manuscript, for all that is there preserved to us of Mark's Gospel is xvi. 17, 18, 19, 20. The testimony of the Old Syriac version to their being part of the sacred record is therefore equivocal. We may hope that fresh light will be thrown on this subject through the investigations which have been prompted by

Mr. F. C. Conybeare's remarkable discovery of the signature, Ariston Erizou ("Ariston the Presbyter's") to the last twelve verses of Mark xvi. in an Armenian MS. of the tenth century. Our readers will find this interesting subject fully discussed in the Expositor for September 1894.

In Luke i. 63, 64 we have the statement, "and they marvelled all" transferred to its natural place, so that it becomes an effect produced by the string of Zacharias' tongue being suddenly loosened, and not simply by his writing the name of John.

In Luke iv. 17 a beautifully characteristic touch is restored to the narrative of our Lord's conduct in the synagogue of Nazareth. Before He stood up to read, He waited modestly until the book of Isaiah the prophet was put into His hand.

In Luke x. 41 our Lord's praise of Mary is accompanied by no reproach to Martha.

In Luke xv. 30 we seem to hear the angry tone of the elder brother as he says, "Thou hast killed for him ~~that~~ fatted calf."

In Luke xvi. 20 we learn that Lazarus was a poor man, but possibly not a beggar.

In Luke xxii. we have a fresh arrangement of the narrative from v. 17 to v. 21.

In Luke xxiii. 37 we are told that the crown of thorns was placed on our Lord's head whilst He was suspended on the cross.

In Luke xxiv. 47 we have the distinct assertion from His own lips of His divinity, and of His being the Messiah, "and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in my name."

In John iv. 36 we are told that the reaper straightway receiveth wages. This, we may safely affirm, agrees with the experience of every earnest worker in the Lord's harvest-field.

In John vi. 59, "These things said he in the synagogue as he taught in Capernaum," becomes "These things said he in Capernaum, in the synagogue, as he taught." This reading would lead us to suspect that our English version of the Gospels shew a misunderstanding of the Greek text—ταῦτα εἶπεν ἐν συναγωγῇ διδάσκων ἐν Καπερναούμ. Here διδάσκων probably refers rather to συναγωγῇ which precedes it, than to ἐν Καπερναούμ which follows.

In John vii. 48 we read, "For who of the chief men or of the Pharisees has believed on him? only this mob, which knoweth not the law."

In John viii. 57 the question, "And hath Abraham seen thee?" follows more naturally on our Lord's previous statement, than the usual reading, "And hast thou seen Abraham?"

In John ix. 35 we observe that our Lord calls Himself Son of man instead of Son of God. All passages in this Codex bearing on the assertion of His divinity must have a special interest, and we therefore note in connection with it the question of the demons in Luke viii. 28, "What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God Most High?"

If this assertion is weakened by the statement in our Lord's prayer, as recorded in John xvii. 5, "And now also give me the glory, my Father, from beside thyself, from that which thou gavest me when the world was not yet," instead of "The glory that I had with thee before the world was," we notice that this is only in agreement with the words of v. 24. The assertion of His divinity is as clear and strong as ever in

John xx. 31. And we perceive from John xvii. 5, 6, that some part of this glory at least, is "the men which thou gavest me out of the world."

In John xi. 38 we are told that the grave of Lazarus was an artificial one, hewn out of the rock, like a cave. We can see a vivid picture also of how Martha was startled, when she saw the bystanders obeying our Lord's command, from her exclamation, "Lord, why are they taking away the stone?"

From John xii. 3 we learn that Mary began her loving ministrations to our Lord by pouring the ointment first on His head.

In John xiii. 34 a change in the punctuation shews us that our Lord said, "And now a new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another."

In John xiii. 37 a similar change shews us that Peter said, "I will lay down my life now for thy sake."

In John xvii. 11 we have an addition to one of our Lord's prayers for His people, "O my holy Father, take, keep them in thy name."

The effect of the transposition of the narrative in John xviii. is to shew that Caiaphas, not Annas, was the high priest who questioned our Lord, and to make the story of Peter's denial an unbroken narrative. It seems as if we had now the episode in something like its original form.

In John xx. 8 Peter shares with John the credit of having been first to see and believe in our Lord's resurrection.

The interpolations in our Codex are not numerous. That which will attract most attention is already known from Codex Bezae in Luke xxiii. 48, "Woe unto us, what hath befallen us? woe unto us, for our sins!"

Another occurs in John xx. 16. Here we are told that Mary Magdalene, when she recognised our Lord by the sound of her own name, "ran towards him, that she might touch him."

In John vi. 63 we are told that it is the Spirit that quickeneth the body; and in John iii. 6 that God is a living Spirit.

Some of these readings, as we have already said, indicate a greater antiquity for the Sinai manuscript than for Cureton's. But on the other hand, there are a few expressions which may point to a later origin.

The chief of these is, as it seems to us, the persistent use of the title, Our Lord, instead of the name Jesus throughout the narrative of all the Evangelists. Also the pleonastic phrase, "He was troubled in his soul, and was disturbed in his spirit," of John xi. 33. This is somewhat puzzling, as one characteristic of our MS., as compared with other early texts, is its conciseness. I believe that the transcribers are willing to assign it to the beginning of the fifth century, that is to an earlier period than Cureton's, or any other Syriac MS. in the British Museum. Their opinion is founded partly upon its orthography. The facsimiles of several pages which are now before the world, will enable other scholars to form an independent judgment. We observe from the final colophon, that the MS. must have been written at a period when prayer for departed saints had become a recognised custom.

The Curetonian Gospels have been of inestimable value in the work of New Testament revision. It is a matter of congratulation that the Sinai manuscript, discovered fifty years later, makes the text of the Old Syriac version nearly complete.

Yet the two do not perfectly coincide, as any one who will place this translation beside Cureton's may easily ascertain. Dr. Nestle, of Ulm, and Mr. Rendel Harris have both expressed the opinion that it represents, not a duplicate of the Curetonian, but the very first attempt at rendering the Gospel into Syriac, of which Tatian and the Curetonian are both revisions.

We have endeavoured, by means of the marginal notes, to indicate those variations from our English Authorised Version, which have their equivalents either in the Revised Version, as substantially representing the testimony of the most ancient Greek manuscripts, in Cureton's MS., or in Codex Bezae as the chief representative of the Old Latin.

We have referred to other manuscripts only in the case of remarkable variants, which are justified by none of these three texts. Beyond all these, a number of readings will be observed for which our Codex alone is responsible. And we have added, in an Appendix, a list of Greek words and phrases from the Textus Receptus for which the Syriac of our manuscript presents no equivalent.

We would point those of our readers to whom the subject of "various readings" in the text of a divinely inspired book may be new or startling, to the weighty and well-considered statement of the late Dr. Hort, in his Introduction to the Text of the New Testament in the Original Greek, the joint work of himself and Dr. Westcott :

"With regard to the great bulk of the words of the New Testament, as of most other ancient writings, there is no variation or other ground of doubt, and therefore no room for textual criticism ; and here therefore an editor is merely a transcriber. The same may be said with substantial truth respecting those various readings which have never been received, and in all probability never will be received, into any printed text. The proportion of words virtually accepted on all hands as raised above doubt is very great, not less, on a rough computation, than seven-eighths of the whole. The remaining eighth, therefore, formed in great part by changes of order and other comparative trivialities, constitutes the whole area of criticism. If the principles followed in the present edition are sound, this area may be very greatly reduced. Recognising to the full the duty of abstinence from peremptory decision in cases where the evidence leaves the judgment in suspense between two or more readings, we find that, setting aside differences of orthography, the words in our opinion still subject to doubt only make up one sixtieth of the whole New Testament. In this second estimate the proportion of comparatively trivial variations is beyond measure larger than in the former; so that the amount of what can in any sense be called substantial variation is but a small fraction of the whole residuary variation, and can hardly form more than a thousandth part of the entire text."

Our study of this ancient Syriac version has convinced us that it is not the work of an heretic, and that its peculiar reading of Matthew i. 16 must be explained by some other hypothesis. No man, who entertained the slightest doubt of our Lord's Divinity, would have left John xiv. 1 in its present very interesting form. And Luke surely gives us a strong confirmation of the view that both genealogies are modified copies of an official register, when he prefaces his own account with "Jesus . . . as he was called, the son of Joseph." We would entreat our readers not to decide this matter from the consideration of a single passage, but from that of the text as a whole.

In conclusion, I have to thank my sister, Mrs. James Y. Gibson, for her careful revision of my proof-sheets; Mr. J. Rendel Harris for several valuable suggestions; and Dr. Eberhard Nestle, of Ulm, for the solution of some important idiomatic difficulties, also for the marginal references to Luke i. 3, xi. 54, xvi. 25; John viii. 47, xi. 18, and for the changes of punctuation in John xiv. 1, 2, xvii. 24, 25.

And the birth of the Christ was on this wise: 18
 When Mary his mother was espoused to Joseph, when they had not come near one to the other,¹ she was found with child of the Holy Ghost. Then 19 Joseph her husband, because he was just, did not wish to expose Mary, and was minded quietly to repudiate her.² But while he thought on these 20 things,³ the angel of the Lord appeared to him in a vision, and said unto him, Joseph, son of David, fear not to take Mary thy wife: for that which is begotten⁴ from her is of the Holy Ghost. And she 21 shall bear to thee a son, and thou⁵ shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins. Now this which happened was that it might be 22 fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by Isaia⁶ the prophet, who said, Behold a virgin shall be with 23 child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is,
 God with us. When Joseph arose from his sleep, 24
 he did as the angel of the Lord had commanded him, and took his wife: and she bore to him a son, and 25
 he called his name Jesus.

And when Jesus was born in Beth Lehem of 2 Judæa in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, and 2 said, Where is the King of the Jews that is born⁷?
 for we have seen his star from the east, and are come to worship him. And when Herod the king 3 heard, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And he assembled all the chief priests and 4 scribes of the people, and said to them, Where is the Christ born? They say unto him, In Beth 5 Lehem of Judæa, for thus it is written by the

 the commandment² of the king, departed: and there ^{2 Cureton.}

 10 there where the child was. And they, when they saw 11 the star, rejoiced with great joy. And they came into the house, and saw the child with Mary his mother, and fell down and worshipped him: and they opened their treasures, and presented unto him gifts; gold, 12 and myrrh⁴ and frankincense. And it appeared to ^{4 Cureton.} them in a vision that they should not return unto Herod,⁵ and they departed by another way into their ^{5 Cureton.}

 the angel of the Lord in a dream, and said unto him,⁷ Arise, take the child and his mother, and flee ^{7 Cureton.} into Egypt, and be thou there until I tell thee: for Herod is about to seek the young child to destroy 14 him. And Joseph⁸ arose, and took the child and his ^{8 Cureton.} mother by night: and departed into Egypt: and was 15 there until Herod the king⁹ was dead: that it might ^{9 Cureton.} be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the mouth of Isaia the prophet, who had said, Out of Egypt 16 did I call my son. Then Herod, when he saw that the wise men had mocked him, was exceeding wroth, and sent and slew the children, all that were in Beth Lehem and in its borders, from two years old and under, according to the time which the wise men had said to him. Then was fulfilled the word which ¹⁷ ¹ Cureton. Jeremia the prophet¹ had spoken. A voice was heard in Ramtha, wailing and weeping, and much ¹⁸ ² Cureton. sighing, the voice² of Rachel who was weeping for her children, and she would not be comforted because they are not.

And ²² ⁶ Cureton. he arose, took the child and his mother, and ²³ ⁶ Cureton. came into the land of Israel. But when Joseph⁶ ²⁴ ⁶ Cureton. heard that Archelaus was king in the room of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: and it ²⁵ ⁷ Cureton. appeared⁷ in a dream that he should go into the ²⁶ ⁸ Cureton. region of Galilee: and he came thither,⁸ and dwelt in ²⁷ ⁸ Cureton. a city which is called Nazareth: and the word was fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, that he should be called a Nazarene.

tized them in the river¹ Jordan, each² man confessing his sins. But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees who were coming to his baptism, he said to them, O generation of vipers, who hath shewn you to flee from the wrath that is about to come³? Bring forth therefore fruits which are meet for repentance: and say not,⁴ We have Abraham for our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham. And behold,⁵ the axe has reached the roots of the trees: and every tree that bringeth not forth fruit is cut down, and is cast into the fire. For I baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: he shall baptize you with fire, and with the Holy Ghost: he who holds⁶ the fan in his hand, and will cleanse his threshing-floor, and will gather the wheat into his garner; but the chaff he will burn up with unquenchable fire.

Then cometh Jesus from Galilee unto John that he might baptize him in the Jordan, and John forbad him, saying unto him,⁷ I have need that thou shouldest baptize me, and thou art come to me. Jesus answered and said unto him, Suffer it now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him to be baptized.⁹ And when he¹⁰ was baptized and went up out¹¹ of the water, lo, the heavens were opened, and he saw the Spirit of God descending in the likeness of a dove, and it abode upon him: and a voice was heard¹² from heaven, saying to him, Thou art my Son and my beloved,¹³ in thee I am well pleased.

And when he⁶ heard that John was apprehended, 12 he withdrew into Galilee; and left Nazareth, and 13 came to Capernaum, which is beside the sea, in Zebulon and in Naphtali: that the word might be 14 fulfilled which was spoken by Isaia the prophet,

15 saying, The land of Zebulon, and the land of Naphtali, the way of the sea, and beyond the river Jordan, 16 Galilee of the nations; the people that sat in darkness saw a light; and those who sat in sadness and 17 the shadows of death light is sprung up on them. From that time began Jesus to preach, saying,¹ The king-¹ Cureton.

 Simon and Andrew his brother, preparing their nets and casting [them] into the sea: for they were fisher-

 20 make you fishers of men. And they in that hour ^{‘hunters,’ of} 21 left their nets and followed him. And again he ^{fish.’} came near, and saw two other brethren, James and John, sitting³ in the ship with Zebedee their father, ³ Cureton.
 22 and preparing their nets, and he called them. And they left their father in the ship, and followed him.
 23 And Jesus went round about in all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all disease and all sickness 24 which were among the people. And they brought unto him many that were tormented with hateful torments, and with sore sicknesses, and on each of them he laid his hand; and he healed everyone.
 25 And when there was a great multitude who were from Galilee, and from Decapolis, and from Jerusalem, and from Judæa, and from beyond 5 Jordan, when he saw the great multitudes, he went up the mountain: and when he had sat down, his 2 disciples came unto him: and he began to say unto them,

 kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be 4 comforted.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. 5

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst for 6 justice: for they shall be satisfied.

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be 9 called the children of God.

Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteous- 10 ness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are ye, when men shall hate you, and 11 persecute you, and when they shall say against you what is evil, for my own name's sake. But rejoice ye, 12 seek mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. Then 14 came the disciples of John, saying, Why do we and the Pharisees fast assiduously, but thy disciples fast not? Our Lord said unto them, The children of the 15 bride-chamber cannot keep a mourning as long as the bridegroom is with them: but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast.

No man putteth a piece of new cloth on a worn- 16

they do not put new wine into worn-out wine-skins, lest the wine split these wine-skins, and the wine be spilled: but they put new wine into new wine-skins, and both are preserved. While he spake with them, 18 behold, a certain ruler of their synagogue came, and falling down, worshipped him, saying, My daughter is now dead: but lay thy hand, and she shall live. And our Lord arose, and went with him, he and his 19

24 he said unto them, Give place: for the maid is not

25 dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed at him. And when he had put out the crowd, he came and touched

29 Yea, our Lord, we believe. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According as ye believed be it unto you.

30 And immediately their eyes were opened; and our Lord charged them, saying unto them, Behold, see daughter-in-law from her mother-in-law. And a 36 man's foes shall be they³ of his household. But he 37 who loveth his⁴ father and his⁴ mother more than me, is not worthy of me: and he who loveth his son or his daughter more than me, is not worthy of me.

 And whosoever doth not take up his cross and follow 38 me, is not worthy of me. For whosoever will find his 39 life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it. He that receiveth you receiveth 40 me, and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me. For whosoever receiveth a prophet in the 41 name of a prophet, receiveth a prophet's reward;

 parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow seed; and when he sowed, some fell by the way-side, 4 and the fowls came and picked it up: and some fell 5 on the rock: and because the sun rose, and there was

- 22 Again Jesus answered and spake unto them by 2 parables. The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man, a king, which made a marriage feast for his son, 3 and sent his servants to call them that were bidden
 4 to the wedding: and they would not come. Again he sent other servants, saying, Say ye to them which

 10 shall find, bid to the wedding feast. And those servants went out into the highways, and gathered together all that they found, bad and good: and the house of the wedding feast was filled with guests. And 11 when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man who was not clad in a wedding dress: he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in 12 hither not having a wedding garment? And he was speechless. Then said the king to the servants, 13 Seize him by his hands and his feet, and put him out into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few are 14 chosen.

Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how 15 they might entangle him in talk. And they 16 sent unto him his disciples, with the servants of Herod, saying to him, Teacher, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, and thou carest not for any man: for thou regardest not the faces of men.¹ How doth it then appear to thee? 17 Is it fitting for us to give tribute unto Caesar, or not? 18 But Jesus knowing their wickedness, said unto them,² 19 Ye hypocrites, why tempt ye me? And Jesus stood before the governor: and he asked him, saying unto him, Art thou the King of the Jews? Jesus said unto him, Thou hast said. And when the chief priests and Pharisees accused him, he gave them no answer. Then said Pilate unto him, Hearest thou not how many witnesses witness against thee? And he gave him no answer; and greatly did the governor wonder. Now at every feast the governor was wont to release unto the people one prisoner, whom they would. And they had a prisoner, a certain notable man, whose name was Jesus Bar-Abba. He had been thrown into prison because of the evil he had done, and because he was a murderer. And when all the Jews were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Jesus Bar-Abba, or

24 Let him be crucified. And when Pilate saw that he

they spat in his face, and took up the reed, and smote 31 him on the head. And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the garments that he was clothed with, and clothed him with his own garments, and led him away, and went to crucify him. And as they went out, they found a man of Cyrene, whose name was Simon: and they compelled him to bear his cross. And they came to a place which is called 33 Gogultha.¹ And they gave him to drink wine² 34 mingled with gall: and he tasted it, and would not drink it. And when they had crucified him, they 35 parted his garments,³ casting lots upon them: and 36 they were sitting, and watching there. While they were sitting, they wrote the crime. They set it over 37 his head, Jesus, the King of the Jews.

Then there were crucified with him two male- 38 factors, one on his right hand, and one on his left. And they that passed by blasphemed against him, 39 wagging their heads, and saying, Destroyer of the 40 temple, and builder of it in three days, if thou art the Son of God, save thyself, and come down from the cross. And the chief priests also, like the scribes 41 and Pharisees, were mocking him, and insulting him, and saying, He who saves others, himself he cannot 42 save. If he be the King of Israel, let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him. He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he 43 desireth him: for he said, I am the Son of God. And the malefactors also, which were crucified with 44 him, like the rest, insulted him. And from the sixth 45 hour there was darkness over all the land until the ninth hour. And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with 46 a loud voice, saying, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me⁴?

49 it out to him to drink. And others said, Let be, let us see whether Elia will come and save him. And 50 Jesus cried with a loud voice, and his spirit went up. And immediately the veil of the sanctuary¹ was 51 rent from the very top; and the earth did quake, and 52 the rocks rent; And the graves were opened; and many bodies of the righteous, those which slept, 53 arose, and came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many.

54 Now the centurion, and they that were watching Jesus with him, when they saw the earthquake, and the things that happened, feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.

55 And many women were there beholding afar off, which followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto 56 him: Mary Magdalene, and Mary the daughter of James and mother of Joseph, and the mother of the 57 children of Zebedee. And when the even was come, there came a certain rich man of Ramatha, named 58 Joseph, and he also was a disciple of Jesus. He went to Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus; and Pilate 59 commanded it to be given to him. And when Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a new 60 linen cloth, and laid it in his own new-hewn tomb, which he had hewn for himself in the rock: and he 61 rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and the they departed. And there was there Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, sitting over against the 62 sepulchre. Now the next day that followed the day of the preparation, the chief priests and Pharisees came together unto Pilate, saying, Sir, we remember 63 that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, After three days I will rise again. But command that they watch the sepulchre for three days, that his disciples may not come by night and steal him, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: and the 64 last error be worse than the first.

Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: watch 65 the sepulchre, as ye know. They went and watched 66 his sepulchre, and sealed the stone with the watch.¹

And on the evening of the sabbath, as the first 28 day of the week dawned, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre. And his appearance² was 3 like the lightning, and his raiment like the snow: and for fear of him those who were watching did 4 shake, and became as dead men. The angel answered 5 and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, which was crucified. THE GOSPEL OF MARK

[vv. 1 to 11 are lost.]

- 1 The spirit driveth him out into the wilderness.
12 And he was there forty days, tempted of Satan; and 13 was with the wild beasts; and the angels were ministering unto him.
- 14 And after John was delivered up,¹ Jesus came ^{1 R.V.} 15 into Galilee, and was preaching the gospel of God, ^{Bezae.}
The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is 16 come: repent ye, and believe his gospel. And as he walked by the shore of the lake of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting their net into 17 the sea: for they were fishers. And Jesus said unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of 18 men. And straightway they forsook their nets, and 19 followed him. And when he had walked again a little further, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who were also sitting in the ship 20 mending their nets. And straightway he called them: and they left Zebedee their father with the hired servants in the ship, and followed him.
- 21 And he was teaching on the sabbath in the syna-22 gogue. And they were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught as one that had authority, and not as 23 their scribes. And there was in their synagogue a man who had an unclean spirit; and he cried out, 24 and said, What have we to do with thee, Jesus of Nazareth? thou art come to destroy us. I know thee who thou art, the holy one of God. And 25 Jesus rebuked him, saying, Shut thy mouth, and come out of him. And the unclean spirit threw him 26 down, and when it had cried with a loud voice, it came out of him. And they were all amazed,¹ and 27 were saying one to another, What is this new teaching²? he hath authority, and commandeth the unclean spirits, and they do obey him. And his 28 fame went abroad through all the region of Galilee, and many followed him. And he came out of the 29 synagogue, and they came to the house of Simon Cepha and Andrew: and James and John were with him. And Simon's wife's mother was sick of a fever, 30 and they tell him of her. And he came near, and 31 took her, and lifted her up; and immediately the fever left her, and she arose and ministered unto them. And when the sun did set, they brought all 32 that were sick with sore diseases, and all the city 33 were gathered together at his door. And he healed 34 many, and cast out many demons, and suffered them not to speak, because they knew him.

And very early in the morning he went out, and 35 departed into a desert place, and there he prayed. And Simon and they that were with him sought him. 36 And when they had found him, they said unto him, 37 Many men seek thee. He said unto them, Up! Let 38 us go into the nearest villages³ and towns, that I may preach there also: for therefore I am come. And he 39 preached in all the synagogues of Galilee, and cast out demons. And there came to him a certain 40 leper, and besought him, and fell at his feet, and said unto him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me

Jesus went with his disciples to the sea: and a great multitude from Galilee,¹ and from Judæa, and from 8 Jerusalem, and from beyond Jordan, and from Tyre, and from Sidon, who had heard everything² that he did, came unto him. And he spake to his disciples, 9 that they should bring a ship to him because of the multitude, lest they should throng him. For he had 10 healed many; and many were pressing him, and those that had plagues of unclean spirits 11 upon them fell down before him, and cried, saying, Thou art the Son of God. And he charged them 12 much that they should not make him known.

And he goeth up into a mountain, and calleth 13 unto him whom he would: and they came unto him. And he chose twelve of them, that they should be 14 with him, and that he might send them to preach, 15 and to have power to heal the sick and to cast out demons. And he called Simon Cepha; and James ¹⁶ the son of Zebedee, and John his brother: he called ¹⁷ them Beni-Ragshi; and Andrew and Philip, and 18 Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Halfai, and Thaddai, and Simon the Zealot, and Juda Iscariot, the betrayer. 19

 there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the king-2 dom of God coming with power. And after six days, Jesus taketh Peter, and James, and John,
 and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart
 by themselves: and he was transfigured before them.
 3 And he became shining, and his raiment became 4 white like snow: and there appeared unto them 5 Moses and Elia talking with him. Cepha answered and said to Jesus, Master, it is good that we are here, and we may make three tabernacles; one 6 for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elia. And he wist not what he was saying, for fear had fallen 7 upon him. And a cloud overshadowed him: and a voice came out of the cloud, This is my Son, 8 who is beloved: hear him. And suddenly again when his disciples looked, no man appeared to them, save Jesus only. As they went down from the moun-9 tain,¹ he charged them that they should tell no man what they had seen, except when the Son of 10 man was risen from the dead. And they kept the saying with themselves, meditating and saying, What is this word that he said? When he is risen from the dead?

11 And they asked him, saying, The scribes say 12 that Elia cometh first. He answered and said unto them, Elia cometh first, that he may restore every thing; and how it is written of the Son of man, 13 must he not suffer much, and be crucified? But I say unto you, That Elia is² come, and they have done unto him whatsoever they listed, as it is written of many and the scribes questioning with them. And straightway were amazed, and ran and 15 saluted him. And he asked them, What question ye 16 with them? And one of the multitude answered 17 and said, I have brought He answered 19 to them, O faithless generation, how long, till when shall I be with you and suffer you? Bring thy son to me. And he brought him unto him: 20 and when he saw him, the spirit threw him down straightway, and he fell on the ground, and wallowed foaming. And he asked from He said 21 unto him, Behold, from his childhood. And it hath 22 thrown him often into the fire, and into the water, to destroy him: but as much as thou canst do, Lord, help me, and have compassion on me. Jesus said 23 unto him, If thou believest, all things can happen unto thee. And straightway the father of the child 24 cried out,¹ and said, I believe, Lord, help my want. When Jesus saw that the people were coming and 25 running, he rebuked the spirit, and said unto it, I charge thee, thou deaf and dumb spirit, come out of him, and enter not again into him. And it cried, 26 and vexed him greatly, and came out of him, and he was like one dead, and many thought that he was dead. But Jesus took him by his hand, and 27 raised him up, and delivered him to his father. And when he was come into the house, his disciples 28 asked him privately, Why could not we cast him out? He said unto them, This kind cometh out by 29 nothing but by fasting and prayer.

And when they had gone forth from thence, they 30 passed through Galilee, and he would not that any man should know it. And he taught his disciples, 31 saying to them, The Son of man shall be delivered up into the hands of men, and they shall kill him, and when they have killed him, on the third day he shall 32 rise. And they understood not what he said unto 33 them, and were afraid to ask him. And he came to Capernaum; and when he had entered into the house, he asked them, What were ye speaking about one to 34 another on the way? But they held their peace:

 for they had reasoned about who should be greatest.
 35 And he sat down, and called his twelve, and said unto them, Whosoever desires to be first, shall be 36 last of all men, and servant of all men. And he took a certain child, and set him in the midst of 37 them: and looked at him, and said unto them, Whosoever shall receive a child like this in my name, receiveth me¹: he receiveth not me, but him that 38 sent me. John answered and said unto him, Our Master, we saw one casting out demons in thy name,
 and we forbade him, because he followed not us.
 39 But he² said unto them, Forbid him not, for there is no man who does anything in my name, and is 41 us is with us. For whosoever shall give you a cup of verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward.

 42 And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones at his words. But Jesus answereth again, and saith unto them, Children, how hard it is for them who trust in their riches to enter into the kingdom of God! For it is easier for a camel to enter into the eye 25 of heaven. And they were the more astonished 26 among themselves. Who then can be saved? Jesus 27 looked upon them and said, With men this is im-

And while they were going up in the way to 32 Jerusalem, and Jesus was going before them, those who were with him were amazed, being afraid. And should happen unto him, Behold, we go up to Jeru- 33

the chief priests, and unto the scribes: and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the

and on the third day he shall rise.

And James and John, the sons of Zebedee, come 35

46 And he came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho, he and his disciples, and a great multitude, Timai Bar-Timai, a blind man, sat on the

 was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry out and say, 48 Son of David, have mercy on me. And many charged him that he should hold his peace: and again he cried the more, Son of David, have mercy temple of God, he began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and the tables of the money changers, and the tables of them that sold 16 doves, and would not suffer any man to carry a 17 vessel within the temple. And he taught, and said,

 Is it not written thus, My house shall be called a house of prayer for all nations? but ye have made it a 18 den of thieves. And the chief priests and the scribes¹ heard it, and sought how they might destroy him:
 for they feared him, for all the people were amazed 19 at his doctrine. And when even came, he went 20 out of the city. And when they passed by in the morning, they saw the fig tree dried up from its 21 root. And when Cepha remembered, he said unto him, Master, the fig tree which thou cursedst is dried

He had 6 one beloved son, he sent him to them, and said, Perhaps they will reverence my son. But those husband- 7 men said among themselves, This is his son, his heir; come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be ours. And they took him, and killed him, and cast him out 8 of the vineyard. When the lord of the vineyard cometh, 9 what will he do? he will destroy these husbandmen, and will give his vineyard to others. And have ye 10 not read the scripture: The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner: this was 11 from the Lord, and it is a marvel in our eyes? And 12 they sought to lay hold on him, and they feared the people, for they understood that he had spoken this parable against them: and they left him, and went 13 their way. And they sent unto him certain of the Pharisees and of the house of Herod, that they might 14 catch him in his word. And they began to say unto him, deceitfully, Teacher, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou regardest not the face of man, but teachest the way of God in truth. Is it lawful to give tribute to Cæsar, or shall we not 15 give? And he knowing their craftiness, said unto them, Why tempt ye me? bring me a penny, that I 16 may see it. And they brought it to him. He saith unto them, Whose is this image and inscription?

 17 They say unto him, Cæsar's. Jesus answered and said, Render the things that are Cæsar's to Cæsar, and the things that are God's to God. And they 18 marvelled at him.

And the Sadducees came unto him, those which 19 say there is no resurrection; and they asked him, saying, Teacher, Moses wrote unto us that when . . . die, to . . . thy strength: this is the first commandment.
 31 And the second which is like it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. There is none other com-32 mandment greater than these. The scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast spoken with truth¹: for ¹ Bezae.

Jesus said while he taught in the temple, How 35 say the scribes that the Christ is the Son of David?
 and David himself said by the Holy Ghost, The 36 Lord said unto my Lord, Sit on my right hand, until I place thine enemies beneath thy feet.¹ And if 37
 David call him² Lord, how was he his son? And all the multitude heard him gladly. And he said while 38
 he was teaching, Keep yourselves from the scribes, who love to walk in the porches,³ and love greetings in the market-places, and the chief seats in the syna- 39 gogues, and the uppermost rooms at feasts: and 40 devour widows' houses, and who for a pretence lengthen their prayers: these shall receive greater condemnation.

And while Jesus stood over against the treasury, 41
 he beheld many who cast money into the treasury:
 and many of the rich who cast in much. And there 42 came a certain poor widow, she threw in two mites, which make two farthings, which make an eighth.
 Jesus called his disciples and said unto them, . . . 43

14 Two days before there was the unleavened bread of the passover the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put 2 him to death. For they said, Not on the feast-3 day, lest there be an uproar of the people. And being in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a certain woman, carrying an alabaster box of spikenard, very pure¹ and of ¹ Syriac them, Let her alone; why trouble ye her? for she 7 hath wrought a good work on me. For ye have the

And behold, he will shew you a large upper room, strewn, and prepared: there And his disciples went as and came to the city, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover. And when it was evening he cometh with his twelve. And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that one of you which eateth with me, he shall betray me. THE GOSPEL OF LUKE

1 Forasmuch as many have desired to write and to relate about those things that have been fulfilled 2 amongst us, even as they have transmitted them to us, who from the beginning were eye-witnesses, 3 and ministers of the word: it seemed good to me also, who have investigated all these things from the beginning, to write of them one by one carefully unto 4 thee,¹ noble Theophilus, that thou mayest know the certainty of the words wherein thou hast been instructed.

¹ Or, 'who have investigated all these things carefully one by one, from the beginning, to write of them unto thee.'

5 There was in the days of Herod, king of Judæa, a certain priest named Zacharia, of the division of the house of Abiam: and his wife was of the daughters 6 of Aaron, her name was Elisabeth. And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the com-7 mandments and righteousness of the Lord, and they were blameless in all their manner of life. And they had no child, because Elisabeth was barren, and 8 they were both now well on in days. And it came to pass, that while he was ministering in the priest's 9 order before God, according to the custom of the priest's ministry, his lot was to offer incense. And 10 when he went into the temple, a crowd of the people were standing and praying at the time of incense.
11 And there appeared to Zacharia an angel of the Lord standing on the right side of the altar of incense.
12 And he was troubled, and shook when he saw the angel, and fear fell upon him. The angel said unto ¹³ him, Fear not, Zacharia: for behold, God has heard the voice of thy prayer, and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John. And thou shalt have joy and glory; and ¹⁴

¹ Bezae. many shall rejoice at his birth. For¹ he shall be ¹⁵ great before the Lord, and shall drink neither wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, while he is still in the womb of his days, and went up with care to the hill country, to a city of Juda; and entered into the house of Zacharia, ⁴⁰ and saluted Elisabeth. And it came to pass, that, ⁴¹ ² Or, 'when Elisabeth saluted Mary.' when Elisabeth heard the salutation² of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elisabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost; and she cried with a loud ⁴² voice, and said to Mary, Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb. And ⁴³ whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? For lo, when the voice of thy ⁴⁴ salutation fell on mine ear, with great joy did the babe leap in my womb. And blessed is she that ⁴⁵ believed that there is a fulfilment of those things which were told her from the Lord. And Mary ⁴⁶ said, My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit ⁴⁷ hath rejoiced in God the Saviour, who hath re- ⁴⁸ garded the lowliness of his handmaiden. For from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed. For ⁴⁹ he hath done to me great things; he who by name is glorious and holy, whose mercy is on the generation ⁵⁰ and on the tribe to those who fear him. He hath ⁵¹ shewed strength with his arm; and hath scattered

52 the imagination of the hearts of the proud ones. He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and hath 53 exalted the humble. And he hath filled the poor with his good things; and the rich he hath despised¹
 54 when in want.² He hath cared for his son Israel,² 55 and hath remembered his mercy; as he spake to our 56 fathers, to Abraham, and to his seed for ever. And Mary abode with Elisabeth about three months, and 57 returned to her house. And when Elisabeth's time of 58 her delivery was fulfilled, she brought forth a son. And her neighbours and her cousins heard that the Lord had multiplied mercy towards her; and they rejoiced 59 with her. And it came to pass, that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child; and they 60 called him by the name of his father, Zacharia. And his mother said, Not so;³ but he shall be called John.³ R. V.
 61 And they said unto her, There is none of thy kindred all their neighbours, and in all the hill-country of them up in their heart, saying, What will this child become? for⁵ the hand of the Lord is with 67 him. And his father Zacharia was filled with the 68 Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying, Blessed be the

 the sabbath days. And they were astonished at his 32 doctrine: for his word was with power. And there 33 was in their synagogue a man which had the spirit of a demon, . . . what have we to do with thee, 34
 Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us?

 fame of him went out in all the country round about them. And when he rose from the synagogue, he 38 entered into Simon's house. And Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever; and he rebuked 39
 the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and ministered unto them. Now when the sun was 40 setting, all they that had any sick with sore diseases brought them unto him; and on each of them he laid his hand, and healed them all. And demons¹ 41 came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art the² Son of God. And he rebuked them, and suffered them not to speak, because they knew him, that he was the Christ. And at the dawn of day he went 42

 he should not depart from them. And he said unto 43

 in it, and said, Take it from the dry land a little way on the water. And he sat down, and taught the multi-speaking . . . he said unto Simon, Launch out into the 5 deep, and throw your nets for fishing. Simon answered and said unto him, Master, we have toiled all the night, and have found nothing : but now at thy word we 6 will guide the net. And when they cast their nets, they enclosed many fishes : and their nets were broken.

 7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in other ships, that they should come and help them. And when they came, they brought up fish, and filled both the ships, and they were nearly sinking 8 from the weight of them. When Simon Peter saw it, he fell on his face before the feet of Jesus, saying to him, O Lord, depart from me, for I am a sinful 9 man. For amazement had taken hold of him, and of all who were with him, at the draught of the 10 fishes which they had taken : and so was also James, and John, the sons of Zebedee, because they were partners of Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not ; from henceforth thou shalt be catching 11 men to life. And they brought these ships to land, and forsook all, and followed him.
 12 And when he was in one of the cities, a certain

And Cepha and they that were with him were heavy with sleep: and when they awoke, they saw his glory, and these two men who were standing with him. And when they began to depart from him, Cepha³ said unto Jesus, Our Master, it is good that we are here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah: and he knew not what he was saying. And while he said these things, there came a cloud and overshadowed them: and when they saw those who⁴ were⁵ entering into the cloud, they feared. And a voice was heard from the cloud, This is my Son⁶ the chosen, hear ye him. And when there was the voice, Jesus was found alone. And they held their peace, and in the sight of men they told nothing of what they had seen in those days.⁷

And⁸ in that day when they were come down from the mountain, a great multitude⁹ met them. And¹⁰ a certain man from the multitude cried, saying, Teacher, I beseech thee, look upon my son: for he is mine only one. And a spirit cometh to him suddenly, and it throweth him down, and chastiseth him; and he foameth, and it hardly departeth from him, when it hath bruised him. And I besought thy disciples that they should cast it out; and they were not able to deliver him.  20 the people. And afterwards they sent with a word, and they should deliver him to the 21 judgment and to the authority of the governor. And saying unto him, Teacher, we know that thou sayest and teachest rightly, neither acceptest thou the faces of man, but teachest the word of God in 22 truth: Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Cæsar, 23 or no? But he perceived their malice, and said unto 24 them, Why tempt ye me? Shew me a penny. The them, Give what is Cæsar's unto Cæsar, and what 26 is God's unto God. And they could not take hold of his word before the people: and they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

27 Then came near certain of the Sadducees, those

 28 him, saying unto him, Teacher,² Moses wrote unto us, If any man's brother die, having no children, the dead, do not become the wives of men: neither 36 can they die: for they are equal unto the angels, as the children of the resurrection. But about the dead, 37 that they rise, even Moses shewed, when God spake with him from the bush, and said, The Lord, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.

 And behold, he is not a God of the dead, but of the 38 living; for all live unto him. Certain of the scribes 39 said unto him, Teacher, thou hast well said. And 40 they durst not ask him anything again.

And he said unto them, How say the scribes con- 41 cerning the Christ, that he is David's son? And David 42 himself saith in the book of his Psalms, The Lord

HERE ENDETH THE GOSPEL OF LUKE.

THE GOSPEL OF JOHN

[i. 1—24 is lost.]

1 baptizest thou then, if thou art not the 25 Christ, nor even Elia, nor even a prophet? John 26 said unto them, I baptize with water: but among 27 you standeth he whom ye know not; he who cometh after me,¹ he, whose shoe's latchet I am 28 not worthy to unloose. These things he spake in Beth 'Abara beyond Jordan, where John was bap-29 tizing. And the day unto him, 30 This is he of whom I said, A man cometh after me,
and he was before me: because he existed before me.
31 And I knew him not; but that he should be made known² to Israel, I am come to baptize with water.
32 And John bare record, the Spirit descending from heaven, and it abode upon him.
33 And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize
. . . . said unto me, whom thou descending, and remaining on him, he it is 34 which baptizeth with the Ghost. And I that this is the chosen³ one of God.
35 Again the next day after John stood, and two of 36 his disciples with him; and he looked upon Jesus as he walked, and said, Behold the Lamb of 37 God! And when those disciples heard John speak, 38 they followed him. And our Lord turned, and said unto them, What seek ye? They say unto him, Our Master,¹ where art thou²? He saith unto them, 39

Come and ye shall³ see. And they followed him, and saw where he was,⁴ and they were with him that day: and it was about the tenth hour. And the 40 name of one of these disciples of John was Andrew, the brother of Simon. And Andrew saw Simon his 41 brother on that day, and saith unto him, My brother, we have found the Messiah.⁵ And he led him and 42 he came to our Lord. And our Lord beheld him, and said unto him, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cepha, which is being interpreted into Greek, Peter.

The day following, he would go forth into Galilee, 43
and findeth Philip, and our Lord saith unto him, Follow me. Now Philip was by his family of Beth 44
Saida, of the city of Andrew and Simon. And 45 Philip findeth Nathanael, and Philip saith unto Nathanael, He of whom Moses wrote, and the prophets, we have found him, that he is Jesus the son of Joseph of Nazareth. Nathanael said unto him, 46
Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?
Philip saith unto him, Come, and thou shalt see.
And saw him 47

And said unto them that sold doves, Take these 2 things hence; and make not my Father's house an 16 house of merchandise. When he did these things 17 his disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. The Jews say 18 unto him, sign shewest thou unto us, that thou doest these things? Our Lord answered 19 and said unto them, Destroy the temple, and in three

20 days In forty and six years the temple 21 in three days thou wilt build it? But he 22 spake of the temple of his body. And when he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this; and they believed the scripture, and the word which our Lord had said.

3 And there was there a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, and this man was a ruler of the 2 Jews. He came to our Lord by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art sent to us from God, a teacher: because no man can do these signs, 3 except he whom God is with. Our Lord said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, that if a man be not born again,¹ he cannot see the kingdom of God. ¹ Syriac—

 Verily, verily, I say unto thee, that if a man be not born of the Spirit and water, he cannot enter the flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit;

 For God sent [not] his Son into the world to judge 17
 the world; but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not con- 18

 demned, because he hath not believed in the name of the only Son. This is condemnation, that light 19

And after these things our Lord and his disciples 22 came to Judæa; and there he baptized, and dwelt with them. And John also was baptizing in 'Ain 23 Nun⁴ near to Salim, because there was much water there: and the people came, and were baptized. For 24
 John was not yet cast into prison.

Then there was a question between one of John's 25 disciples and a Jew about purifying. And they 26 came unto John, and said unto him, Our Master,⁵ he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness, behold, he also baptizeth, and many come to him. John⁶ said unto them, A man can 27

⁷ Cureton. know in truth that this is the Christ ? But behold,⁷ 27
we know this [man] whence he is : and the Christ when he cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

And Jesus lifted up his voice, and taught in 28
the temple, saying, Ye know me, and ye know whence I am : and I am not come of myself, but he that sent me is true, and ye know him not. For I 29

29 know him : because I was with him, and he hath 30 sent me. And they sought to take him : but no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not 31 yet come. And many of the town believed on him, and said, The Christ when he cometh, will he shew more signs than this man shews ?

32 And the chief priests and Pharisees heard that the people murmured ; and they sent officers to take 33 him. Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while I am 34 with you, and I go unto him that sent me, and ye shall seek me, and shall not find me : and whither I 35 go, ye cannot come. The Jews said among themselves, Whither will this [man] go, that we shall not find him ? will he perhaps go teaching the seed of the 36 Gentiles, that we shall not find him ? And what is the word that he said, I go away, and ye shall not find me : and that he said, Whither I go, ye cannot 37 come ? And in the great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him 38 come unto me, and drink. Every one that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, rivers of living 39 water shall flow out of his belly. But this he spake of the Spirit, which they that believed on him should receive : for till that time was not yet given ; because Jesus had not received 40 his glory. Then some people of the crowd 41 said, Of a truth this is the Christ. And others said, 42 How shall the Christ come out of Galilee ? Is it not written thus, That the Christ shall be of the seed of David, and shall come from Bethlehem, David's own 43 town ? And there was a division among the crowd 44 because of him. And there were others who would have taken him, but no man was able to lay hands on him. And those officers returned, and came to that 45 multitude and to the Pharisees; and the priests and Pharisees said, Have ye not brought him? The officers 46 said to them, Never man spake what this man spake.

 Then said the Pharisees to those officers, Are ye also 47 deceived? For who of the chief men or of the Pharisees 48 has believed on him? only this mob who knoweth not 49 the law. Nicodemus¹ said unto them, he that came unto him before by night, The law, doth it judge any 50 man, until we hear him, and know what he did? 51
 They say unto him, Art thou perhaps also of Galilee? 52
 Search, and look, for no prophet ariseth out of Galilee.² Again³ Jesus said unto them, I am the light of 8 the world: he that followeth me doth not walk in darkness, but findeth the light of life. The Jews 13 said unto him, Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true. Jesus said unto them, Even if I 14 bear record of myself, my record is true: because I know whence I came, and whither I go; and ye neither [know] whence I came, nor whither I go. Ye 15 judge after the body; I judge no man. And if I judge, 16 my judgment is true: because I am not alone, but I and he⁴ who sent me. It is also written in your law, 17 that the testimony of two men is true. I am one that 18 beareth witness of myself, and the Father that sent me beareth witness of me. They say unto him, Where 19 is thy Father? He said unto them, Ye neither know me, nor my Father: if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also. These things spake he 20 in the treasury, and in the temple: and no man took hold of him, because his hour was not yet come.

 For he who is of God heareth God's word: ye there- 47 said, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritan, and hast a demon? Jesus said unto them, I have not a 49

those who had consoled Mary, when they saw that she was thus amazed and had gone out, followed her.
They supposed that she was going to the grave to weep.
And when she, Mary, reached Jesus, she fell at his 32

to the grave. And the grave was hollowed out like 39 a cave, and the door was covered by a stone. Jesus said, Take ye away this stone. Martha saith unto him, Lord Why are they lifting away the stone?
40 Behold, he stinketh, for he hath been four days. He said unto her, I said unto thee, that, if thou wouldest 41 believe, thou shouldest see the glory of God. Then those men who were standing, came near, and raised the stone. But he lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.
42 And I know that thou hearest me always: but because of this crowd of people I say these things, 43 that they may believe that thou hast sent me. And in that hour that dead man came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound with a linen napkin. Then said our Lord, 45 Loose him, and let him go. And many Jews which came to Jesus because of Mary, believed in Jesus 46 from that hour. And there were some of them who believed not, but went their ways to the Pharisees, and related to them what Jesus had done.

47 Then the chief priests and the Pharisees as-

on him: and the Romans will come, taking away

our city and our nation. Now one of them, whose 49 name was Caipha, their own high priest of that year, this same Caipha said unto them, Ye know nothing, nor can that it is expedient for us, that one 50 man should die for all the nation, and that the whole nation perish not. But this word he spake not of 51 his own mind: but because he was high priest, he prophesied, because Jesus was about to die for the nation; and not for the nation only, but also that 52 the children of God who are scattered abroad should be gathered into one. Now from that day forth 53 they took counsel together to kill him. But Jesus 54 walked no more boldly in sight of the Jews but went his way to a country which was near to which is called Ephraim, and there he went about with his disciples.

And was nigh at hand: and many went 55 up out of the country to Jerusalem to sanctify themselves. And they were seeking for Jesus, and saying 56 one to another in the temple, Do ye suppose that perhaps he will not come to the feast? And the 57 chief priests and the Pharisees commanded, that whosoever should see him, should come and shew it to them, that they might take him.

And six days before it was the unleavened bread, 12 Jesus came to the village of Bethany, to Lazarus, he who had been dead, and was alive. And he¹ made 2 him a supper there; and Lazarus was one of those seated at meat who were sitting with him; but Martha was cumbered with service. Now Mary 3 took an alabaster box of a pound of ointment of pure² spikenard, of great price, and poured it on the head of Jesus while he sat at meat, and she

 all the house was filled with the odour of the oint-4 ment. And Juda Scariota, one of the disciples, he 5 who should betray him, said, Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the 6 poor? Now Juda did not care for the poor, but because he was a thief, and the bag of the poor was 7 with him.¹ When Jesus heard it, he said unto him,
 Let her alone: she is keeping it . . . of my burial.² 9 And much people of the Jews knew that he was there: and they came there, not in order that they might see Jesus, but Lazar, whom he had raised from 10 amongst the dead. And the chief priests consulted 11 that they might kill Lazar also; for because of Lazar 12 many believed on Jesus. And on the next day . . . he went out, and came to the Mount of Olives . . . and those great multitudes to the feast, when they

13 Now before the unleavened bread, Jesus knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto his Father, loving his own which are 2 in this world, he loved them unto the end. And there was a supper, and Satan had put into the heart of Juda, son of Simon Scariota, so that he might 3 betray him. And because Jesus knew that the Father had given all things into his hands, and he knew that he was come from God, and went to God; 4 he rose, and laid aside his garments; and took 5 a towel, and cast it about his loins. And he took water, and poured it into a wash-basin, and began to wash the feet of his disciples, and to wipe them with 6 the towel which he had cast about his loins. And when he came to Simon Cepha, Simon said unto 7 him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet? Jesus said unto him, What I do unto thee thou knowest not; but 8 after a while thou shalt know. Simon said unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus said unto him, Except I wash thee, thou hast no part with me.
 9 Simon saith unto him, Then, Lord, thou shalt wash not my feet only, but also my hands and my head. 9 Jesus saith to him, He that is bathed needeth not 10 save to wash his feet only, because he is clean every whit: and ye also are clean, but not all of you. For 11

 he knew who was betraying him; therefore he said this word. Now when he had washed their feet, he 12 took his garment, and sat down. He said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you? Behold, ye call 13 me Our Master and Our Lord: and ye say well; for so I am. And if I, your Master and your Lord, 14 have washed your feet; how much is it fitting that ye also should wash one another's feet? But I have 15 shewed you this example, that as I have done to you, ye should do.¹

These things spake Jesus, and went forth with his 18
disciples over the brook Kedron, [to] the mountain, the place where there was a garden, and he entered there, he and his disciples. But Juda, the betrayer, 2 knew that place: for many times Jesus came there together with his disciples. But Juda, the betrayer, 3 brought with him a band, and some of the chief priests and Pharisees, and officers, and a crowd of people carrying lanterns and lamps, and he came thither. And when Jesus saw all that came against¹ 4 him, he went forth, saying unto them, What seek ye? They say unto him, Jesus of Nazareth. He 5 saith unto them, I am he. But Juda also stood with them. And as Jesus said these things, I am he, 6 they went backward, and fell to the ground. And 7 Jesus said to them again, Whom seek ye? They say unto him, Jesus of Nazareth. He said unto them, I 8 have told you that I am he: if ye seek me, let [these] go their way: that the word might be fulfilled which 9
he spake, Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none. Then Simon Cepha drew a sword, and smote 10
the high priest's servant, and took off his right ear;
and the name of the man was Malchus. And Jesus 11 said unto Cepha, Put back the sword into its place: the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it? And the band and the chiliarch 12 and the officers of the Jews bound him, and brought 13
him first to Hannan, the father-in-law of Caiapha, which was the high priest of that year. Now 24 Hannan sent him bound unto Caiapha counsel to the Jews, that one man 14 should die for the people. ²But Simon Cepha and 15 priest, because of this he went with Jesus into the palace.

19 Then the high priest asked Jesus about his disciples, who they were, and about his doctrine, what 20 it was. Jesus said unto him, I spake openly with the world; and at all times I taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, and where all the Jews are assembled; and in secret have I said nothing.

21 But now why dost thou ask me? Ask them which heard me, what I have spoken with them: behold, 22 they know what I have spoken. When he had thus spoken, one of the officers which stood by struck Jesus on the cheek, and said unto him, Dost thou thus give 23 an answer to the high priest? Jesus said unto him, I have spoken well: why smitest thou me?

16 But Simon Cepha was standing without at the [door]. And the disciple, which was known unto the high priest, went out, and spoke to the 17 keeper of the door, and brought in Simon. When the handmaid of the door-keeper saw him, she said to him, Art thou not also one of this man's disciples? He saith unto her, not.

18 Now there was there and the officers, and they had laid for themselves a fire in the court to warm themselves, for it was freezing. Now Simon also was standing with them, and warming himself.

25 . . . these people . . . Art not thou also . . . of his disciples? But he denied it, and said, I am not.

 and said unto them, What accusation have you against this man? They answered, and said, If he 30 were not a malefactor, we would not even have delivered him up unto thee. Pilate said unto them, 31

 Magdalene to the sepulchre, and saw that the stone was rolled away, and lifted from the mouth of the sepulchre. And she ran, she came to Simon Cepha, 2 and to that disciple whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away our Lord out of the sepulchre, and I know not where they have borne him. And the two went forth to go to the sepulchre, 3 and they were running: disciple Simon, 4 and came and stooped down, . . . they when 5 to the sepulchre reached and 6

7 saw the linen clothes, and the napkin that was rolled 8 up together and placed apart. And then went in also that disciple to the grave, and they saw and believed.
9 Because that until now they did not know from the 10 scriptures that he was to rise from among the dead. But when the disciples saw these things, they went their 11 way. But Mary was standing by the grave and weeping:
12 and while she was weeping, she looked at the sepulchre, and saw there two angels in white garments, sitting one at the pillows of the place in which Jesus had been 13 lying, and one at the [place of the] feet. Those angels say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? and whom seekest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have lifted away my Lord, and I know not where they 14 have laid him. And when she had said these things, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and 15 knew not that he was Jesus. But he said unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? and whom seekest thou?
And she supposed that he was the gardener. She said unto him, Sir, if thou hast taken him away, tell me where thou hast laid him. I will go and take 16 him away. Then Jesus saith unto her, Mary. And she understood him, and answered, saying unto him, Rabbuli.¹ And she ran towards him that she might 17 touch him. But he said unto her, Touch me not;
for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go unto my brethren, and say unto them, Behold, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father, and to 18 my God, and your God. And Mary came and told the disciples that she had seen our Lord, and the things he had revealed to her she told unto them.²

¹ Or, 'my master.'

² Bezae.

19 And on the same day, which was the first of the week, in the place where the disciples were, and 19

 the doors were shut for fear of the Jews, came Jesus, and stood amongst them, and saith unto them, Peace be with you. And when he had so said, he shewed 20 them his hands and his side. And when the disciples 21 saw him, they were glad. Again he said unto them, Peace be with you: even as my Father hath sent me, send I you. And when he had said these things, 22 he breathed in their faces, and said unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost: whose soever sins ye remit, 23 they are remitted unto him; and whose ye retain against him, they¹ are retained.

But Thoma, one of the twelve, was not there 24 with the others when Jesus came unto them. They 25 say unto him, Our Lord is come, and we have seen him. He saith to them, Except I shall see his hands, and the place of those nails, and shall stretch forth my finger into the places, and shall stretch forth my hand into his side, I will not believe.

And after eight days, on the next first [day] of the 26 week, the disciples were assembled together in the house, and Thoma with them: and the doors were shut. Jesus came and stood amongst them, and said unto them, Peace be with you. Then he said to 27 Thoma, Reach hither thy finger, and see my hands;
 and put thy hand on my side: and be not faithless.
 Thoma said unto him, My Lord and my God. Jesus 28 saith unto him, Now that thou hast seen me, thou 29 hast believed in me: blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed in me.

And many [other] signs did Jesus shew to his 30 disciples, which are not written in this book: but 31 these that are written, are that ye may believe that

31 Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; that ye may believe in him, and may live by his name.

21 After these things Jesus appeared to his disciples at the lake of Tiberias; and appeared to 2 them on this wise. When they were assembled all together, Simon Cepha, and Thoma, and Nathanael, he who was of Catana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two others of the disciples, 3 Simon saith unto them, I go a-fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. And they went up, and sat in the boat; and on that night they caught 4 nothing. And when the day was breaking,¹ Jesus ¹ R. V. came and stood on the shore of the lake: and his 5 disciples understood not that it was he. He said unto them, Children, have ye aught to eat²? They ² R. V. Bezae. say unto him, No. He said unto them, Cast your net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. And when they had cast as he had said unto them, they sought to pull the net into the ship, and they could not for the weight of many fishes which it 7 held. Then said the disciple whom Jesus loved unto Simon, This is our Lord. So when Simon heard that it was our Lord, he took his coat, and girt it about his loins, and cast himself into the lake, and was swimming, and came, for they were not far from the 8 land. But the rest of the disciples were coming in 9 the boat, dragging the net; and as they went up on the dry land, they found before Jesus live coals of fire, 10 and fish lying thereon, and bread also laid. Jesus saith unto them, Bring ye of those fish which ye 11 have now caught. And Simon went up, and drew the net to the dry land quite full: and they found in it great fishes, a hundred and fifty and three: and with all this weight the net was not rent.¹ Jesus 12 saith unto them, Come and break your fast.² And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who he was.

for they were believing that it was he. And Jesus 13 took the bread and the fish, and blessed them, and gave to them. This was the third time that Jesus 14 appeared to the disciples after he rose from the dead. And when they had eaten, Jesus saith to 15 Simon, Thou [art] Simon, son of Jonah, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs. Again Jesus saith to him, 16 Thou [art] Simon, son of Jonah, lovest thou me much? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep. Again Jesus saith unto 17 him, Simon, son of Jonah, lovest thou me? Simon was grieved because three times Jesus spake thus unto him. Simon said unto him, Thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. And he said, Feed my flock. Verily, I say, When 18 thou wast a young man, thou didst gird thy loins, and didst walk whither thou wouldest: and when thou shalt be old, thou shalt lift up thy hands, and another shall gird thy loins, and shall drive thee whither thou wouldest not. But this he said, by 19 what death Simon should g . . . God. And when he had said these things, he saith unto Simon, Follow me. Simon turned about, and saw that disciple whom 20 Jesus loved following him; he who had lain on Jesus' breast at supper, and had said to him, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee? When Simon saw him follow- 21 ing him, he said unto him, And what of this man, Lord?
Jesus saith unto him, If I will that this one tarry till 22
I come, what is that to thee? Follow thou me now.

23 And this saying went abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die: but Jesus had not said concerning him, that he should not die; but, If 24 I will that he tarry till I come. This is the disciple which testified about these things, and wrote them: 25 and we know that his testimony is true. And Jesus did many other things, which, if they were written one by one, the world would not suffice for them.

Here endeth the Gospel of the Měpharrěshē four books. Glory to God and to his Christ, and to his Holy Spirit. Let every one who reads and hears and keeps and does [it] pray for the sinner who wrote [it].
May God in his tender mercy forgive him his sins in both worlds. Amen and Amen.
